Notice.

PARTIES INDEBTED TO E. VAN FRIDAGH AND VAN FRIDAGH & CO. will please bear in mind that we are in need of a [illegible] [illegible] pay their [illegible] [illegible] our [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] call [illegible] [illegible]

THE NATIONAL DEBT.—The copperheads have made a vast deal about the national debt and with much flourish show up alarming figures made during the late rebellion, making them the basis of earnest appeals to the people to restore the Democratic party to power. This debt, let the figures be what they may, was contracted in prosecution of a war for the preservation of the Government. The war was begun by Democrats of the South and helped and encouraged by the fullest sympathies of Democrats North. During a Democratic administration, the forts of the Government were betrayed into the hands of rebels and Democrats in Congress and at the head of Departments made deliberate preparations for war, winked at by a Democratic President.

The war was not provoked by Northern aggression as A. H. Stephens told the people of Georgia and the rebel leaders to their teeth. No right had been denied them. If Stephens told the truth—and Stephens is a Democrat. Others in the South and hundreds of them men of mind and statesmanlike acquirements, told the Southern people they had no cause to rebel. But rebel they did and now we have the National debt as a necessary consequence. Whose fault is it that it was contracted? Was it the wrong of the men who poured out their blood in the Wilderness, at Gettysburg, before Richmond and everywhere from the Potomac to the Rio Grande? No! a thousand times no! Not a cent had been necessary but for the accursed deceptions practiced by the Democracy—but for the fire they kindled in the Southern heart! Democracy conceived, Democracy brought forth and Democracy bred the rebellion. Patriotism by the hands of Union men throttled and killed the Demon. Patriotism by the hands of Union men saved the Government from utter destruction while Democrats North stood by with folded hands and laughed to scorn and spit upon and jeered the very men by whose heroism and blood it was rescued from perdition. And now, Democrats go before the people with the impudence which nobody but a Democrat ever attained, and howl against the men who saved the Government, that they—Union men—created a NATIONAL DEBT, and ask to be entrusted with the Government which Democracy never lifted a finger to save! "Democrats would not have created any debt!" But they would have let the Government sink into utter nothingness or would have merged it in the rebel confederacy. Democracy made the debt twice as large as would have been necessary had they not badgered and thwarted the Government by every expedient they could use. The rebellion would have been crushed in half the time, with half the sacrifice of life and HALF THE PRESENT DEBT, but for DEMOCRATIC AID to the rebel conspirators. Notwithstanding this most patent fact which all the world knows to exist, Democrats cry out against the Union party for extravagance in public expenditure! Out upon such unblushing impudence! Out upon the satanic hearts with saintly tongues!

Our debt is large, but thanks to the patriotic faith of the people, which even Democracy failed to murder, it is a burden cheerfully borne, because necessarily incurred.

With the double-dealing which is characteristic of Democracy, they denounce the profligate creation of the debt, and yet nine-tenths of the Democrats are in favor of making it still larger by paying the late rebels for property lost in the attempt to destroy the Government. In Oregon, their candidate for Governor declares himself publicly, in favor of paying for every negro made free by the constitutional amendment. His Democratic audience vehemently applauded him for the declaration. His proposition would almost double the debt, large as it is. But that would be a reward to the late rebels and to reward treason is Democratic. It is not indebtedness contracted in favor of treason that Democrats complain of. It is only that which they and the rebels made necessary for the salvation of the Government, that they howl against.

THE COUNTRY WANTS THE PROOF.—Andrew Johnson says Sumner, Stevens and the majority in Congress are traitors. If they are, why does he not bring forward the proof and let the law proceed against them. He says further, that these men, the persons to whom he is indebted for his office, have endeavored to incite his assassination. If this be so, it is due to the country and humanity that the plot should be fixed on them, and that punishment should follow. These accusations should not be suffered to rest where they are. If they are true, the country should know it; if they are false, so shameless a calumniator should not hold the Chief Magistracy of this nation. The President has accused men of treason who have been trusted as friends of their country, and the country demands to know whether these men are traitors, or whether their accuser has asserted a falsehood.

At a great meeting in New York called to sustain the veto of the Freedmen's Bureau bill, the following among other resolutions was adopted:

> Resolved, That notwithstanding the failure of the bill lately passed through the two Houses of Congress for the protection of the freedmen, we wish it understood that we claim for them the full possession and enjoyment of all civil rights equally with any other inhabitants of the country, by which we mean all rights of person and property, including those without which the others are useless—the right to sue and to testify, and complete equality before the law—and we think that Congress and the President are bound to use all the means which the constitution has given them to secure that end.

The Civil Rights bill gives the freedmen the very rights which are enumerated in the above resolution, yet it was vetoed by the President, and the obsequious flatterers who passed the series of resolutions of which the above is one, now turn around and applaud the Executive for trying to defeat the measure which they resolved ought to pass.

PLEASE ANSWER.—The Statesman inquires whether the son of Jo Lane who is on the Democratic ticket as candidate for Secretary of State is the same one who served in the rebel army and was captured by General Grant at Richmond? We hope the Democratic journals of the State will consider this question addressed to them, and undertake to answer it. Before the election they will of course furnish to us a history of the exploits of the Lane family, and then we shall know all about it. This history will be a very effective campaign document—almost equal for that purpose to another exhibition of the renowned Joseph's old wounds.

HAS ATTEMPTED AGAIN.—That inimical hand, which for a long time was employed in writing for the now defunct A[illegible] the very worst matter that ever appeared in that worst of all papers, has gone to work on the Herald. It is the same old inimical hand, and there is no mistaking its wretched tracery. One came [illegible] remark of striking resemblance of the motto of the [illegible] hand to the sic semper tyrannis of J. Wilkes Booth. The inimical hand writes as if it were covered all over with blood, and from the marks it leaves behind [illegible] we [illegible] not believe there is rain enough in the sweet heavens to wash it clean.

Rebel Talk About Revolutions.

Reports are rife among the Democracy of another revolution. Whispers of another revolutionary scheme, boding the shedding of blood and threatening the disruption of the Government, circulate freely among the peace loving Democracy. Democratic Senators at Washington shake their heads ominously, and talk obscurely, yet in knowing accents, about the struggle which impends. Democratic Representatives, with a like propensity for prediction, feebly, but yet earnestly warn the country that some great calamity is about to befall. Democratic newspapers have caught the infection, and indulge in pathetic forebodings about the terrible strife, which they, with marvelous provision, tell us has passed the probable, and is tending towards the certain. From the remotest East to the farthest West, these rumors fill the air. The old National Intelligencer, now the President's organ at Washington, hints darkly at the approaching revolution; and simultaneously, away over by the western sea, the Oregon Herald utters a voice, feebly piping the same doleful strains. These predictions of a great national calamity are uttered with Tacitean fervor. It seems nearly certain that the dreadful portents which the Roman historian saw, have, in these wiser days, appeared again, filling our Democratic soothsayers with the most fearful apprehensions, and boding the immediate downfall of the great American Republic. If our Democratic friends mean the country no harm, but are merely frightened at their own gloomy predictions, they have our tenderest sympathies; but if they are throwing out hints of their own intention to engage again in rebellion, and are determined to bring about the collision of arms which they are anticipating, then we thank them for giving us timely information of their rebellious schemes.

If a revolution is to occur, it must have a beginning. Somebody must commence it. There must be some violation of our organic law, else the threatened revolution will never begin. Will those who predict revolution, tell the country who it is that is going to openly violate the Constitution of the United States? There are rumors even in this community, that a violent collision is soon to occur between the President and Congress. The Democratic journal of this city "would not be at all surprised to hear" of its occurrence. Now it is manifest that there will be no trouble of this kind so long as each branch of the Government confines its actions within its own sphere. Congress has interfered with no prerogative of the President, and does not threaten or propose to do so. It passes a bill in a regular, Constitutional way; the bill is sent to the President who refuses to sign it, as he has a Constitutional right to do; it then comes back to Congress and both Houses pass it over the veto by a two-thirds vote, as the Constitution provides. So far, all is strictly regular. Congress has done nothing which the Constitution does not warrant. It has gained a great triumph in passing the civil rights bill over the veto, and is satisfied with what has been achieved. When Democrats say that a "collision of an entirely different character is expected to occur" at Washington—that a great and bloody revolution is at hand, what, therefore, do they mean? They mean nothing less than that the President is expected to call the military power to his aid, to dissolve the National Legislature, to recognize the rebel and Democratic members as the Congress, and to exclude the representatives of the loyal people of the United States. When they talk of a "collision," or a "revolution," they expect it to be brought about in this way by the action of President Johnson.

We presume there are none except the Copperheads themselves who expect the President to do a thing of this kind. That they expect him to do it, betrays their desire to precipitate the "revolution" they are so confidently talking of. They evidently wish to see a coup d'etat of this sort; else why do they predict its occurrence? These inciters of strife talk of peace, but peace is just what they do not want the country to have.

But suppose the President should attempt the "revolution" which the Copperheads are so anxiously waiting for, could he succeed in carrying it through? Could he use the army at his pleasure? Could any President in this Government command our soldiery for such a purpose? The soldiers who compose our armies entered the service to preserve, not to destroy the Government. Their arms will never be turned against their country. They can never be made the instruments of despotism. Presidents may call, but they will not obey.

In the conference held by the insurgent leaders before the battle of Shrewsbury, Glendower says

> "I can call spirits from the vasty deep."

To which Percy replies:

> "Why, so can I, or so can any man;
> But will they come when you do call for them?"

Certainly the President can call on the military to disperse Congress; but nobody but the turbulent Copperheads desire or expect him to do it, and if he should issue such an order, he could no more compel the army to obey him than he could bring "spirits from the vasty deep" by calling for them.

We have had a long, bloody war, but the Copperheads are not yet satisfied. Their traitor friends were defeated and humbled; therefore they look forward with hopeful anticipation to the time when the contest may be renewed under more favorable auspices. Their talk about "another revolution" is but a threat of another rebellion. Their dark insinuations show clearly enough that had they the power they would inaugurate a movement in behalf of their rebel friends which would again deluge the land in blood.

A COUNTER WARNING.—The following "warning" is from the Herald, a Democratic newspaper printed at Portland:

> "We warn Democrats that when they patronize it [The Mountaineer] they draw a knife across their own throats. This talk to them has as a viper which, when they shall have warmed it into life, will sting them with its poison-ous fangs."

The Mountaineer comes back with a counter warning as follows:

> "You slimy harlot! The Mountaineer had life before such sickly institutions as yours came into existence, and will live when you are numbered among the many overgrown things that have passed away in Portland. Already you begin to smell bad and the hand of death is visible on your every page. If the Democracy of this State want to have a daily paper published in Portland, we warn them that unless they procure some person with more brains than the present concern has, before the pending canvass is over they will be without an organ in that city."

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO APRIL 11.

Iowa Democratic Convention

CHICAGO, April 11.—The Democratic State Convention of Iowa is called for June 27th. Conservative Republicans who support the President are invited to join.

Local Elections

At the city election in Springfield, Illinois, yesterday the vote cast was the largest ever polled. A Democratic mayor was elected by 25 majority.

At the Albany, New York, election yesterday, G. H. Thacher, Democrat, was elected mayor by 760 majority, over Robert H. Pruyn.

At the Trenton, New Jersey, election yesterday the Democrats had a majority.

The municipal election in St. Paul, Minnesota, yesterday gave the Democrats 150 majority.

The First Suit Under Civil Rights Law.

The first suit under the civil rights bill was instituted at Lafayette, Indiana, yesterday, a negro claiming to enforce a contract under it, while the defendant claims the benefit of the State constitutional black laws. Judge Hoot, of the State Circuit Court, has the case under advisement and will probably send it to the State Supreme Court, now in session.

More Fenian Excitement.

Dispatches from Eastport, Maine, represent that there is much excitement on the border owing to the presence of a large number of Fenians and the fears of hostilities. Three British war ships are on the look out. The garrison at Campbell Island has been increased. Earthworks have been thrown up and vigilant preparations have been made to prevent a raid.

Overland Mail Service.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The post office department has given a contract to Holladay to run another overland mail to California via the Smoky Hill route and Denver—service to be commenced on the 16th inst.

Confirmations by the Senate

The Senate has confirmed the nominations of David W. Ballard, of Oregon, for Governor of Idaho; Richard C. McCormick, for Governor of Arizona; James P. L. Carter, of Tennessee, for Secretary of Arizona; Moses Hallet, Chief Justice of Utah; D. Halloway, Marshal, and Frank Halley, Secretary of Colorado.

Circular Relating to Shipping Petroleum

Secretary McCulloch has issued a circular declaring petroleum, benzine, &c., explosive burning fluids, under point of the statute of August 3d, 1866, and requiring all steam vessels carrying passengers to procure special permits before taking such articles on board.

The Scope of the Peace Proclamation.

The President, in conversation with General Howard, says the peace proclamation has only such scope with reference to the States named therein as his proclamation of last August had with reference to Tennessee. It does not suspend the operation of military law in any of the States, and the Freedmen's Bureau will continue to exercise its accustomed functions. The officers will remain on duty, and its agents will see that justice continues to be administered between freedmen and whites by the existing semi-military courts, until the various States give the former the right to be heard in their civil courts in the same manner as the latter. The scope of the proclamation with respect to trials by court-martial or commission, does not seem to be well understood, even by officers high in authority here and elsewhere. The department commanders of Georgia and Alabama have telegraphed for information on the subject, and it is understood the matter was brought before the cabinet to day. The action taken is not known, but there is good reason for believing that the War Department will soon issue a circular of instruction.

The President Coming to his Senses.

Prominent friends of the President say he will enforce the Civil Rights bill in good faith, quoting the remark that "he having exercised his constitutional prerogative in vetoing the bill, and Congress having exercised its prerogative in passing it, he shall feel bound by their action." These gentlemen also express the belief that having seen the power of Congress and with what unanimity it is sustained by the people, he will now endeavor to conform his action so that there may be harmony between them. Gen. Howard will, under verbal instructions from the President, issue a circular to his subordinates apprising them of the passage of the Civil Rights bill, and instructing them to inform the freedmen of its provisions and to assist in maintaining them.

Congressional.

The House passed the bill this afternoon for coining new five cent pieces composed of copper and nickel a trifle larger than three cent pieces issued last year.

NEW YORK, April 11.—The Tribune's Washington special dispatch says the Senate yesterday failed to confirm Louis D. Campbell, of Ohio, as Minister to Mexico.

A Reported Case of Cholera.

Considerable excitement was caused by the death of a woman last Monday, 9th, of Asiatic cholera. The Sanitary Superintendent of the Board of Health declares the case was not cholera, but the coroner declares it was, and there is much excitement throughout the city.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—No Eastern news to-day.

The American Flag Publishing Company filed its articles of incorporation yesterday. Its object is the printing and publishing a daily paper in this city, capital stock $150,000, divided into 1,500 shares of $100 each; trustees Geo. Treat, Geo. W. Tyler, J. B. Coe, and Delos J. Howe.

The Assurance Mining Company has incorporated for the purpose of mining on the Occidental Lode, in the San Benito district, Monterey county, capital stock $144,000, divided into 1,440 shares of $100 each.

Andrew M. Jackson, the old mulatto who was convicted of an indecent assault on a little girl five years of age, was yesterday sentenced to a year's imprisonment in the county jail.

The will of Clifton W. Bowley was filed in the Probate Court yesterday. He leaves all his property to his wife so long as she remains single, but in case she marries again the property goes to his sons.

Daniel Norcross has brought suit in the 16th District Court to recover $2,600 from M. Price, for an alleged assault and battery.

Money Market—Mining Stocks.

Gold in New York yesterday was firmer, private dispatches quoting 126¾@127. Sterling exchange is also on the rise, the rates for best bankers' bills being 107@107½. The mining stock market is irregular, with more doing in Imperial, Chollar-Potosi and Ophir.

Shipping News.

Arrived, April 11th, bark Lenore, 16 days from Port Blakely; bark Geo. Washington, 14 days from Freeport; brig Deacon, 11 days from Port Blakely; schooner W. F. Brown, 3 days from Umpqua river; bark Adelaide, 12 days from Port Ludlow; schooner Annette, 3 days from Yaquina. Sailed, the 12th, bark Rival, for Puget Sound.

REVIVING.—Democrats are under the hallucination that they are getting again upon their legs. While the war was in blast, they were comparatively quiet, thinking no doubt that "prudence is the better part of valor," but since the times of peace have come and danger of pendent ropes has become less imminent, they naturally take to blurting out the accumulated bitterness and hate of the last five years. The Courier man, for instance, two years ago, would have kept the following as his very private opinion:

Cromwell dissolved the Parliament of England, and Andrew Johnson, backed by the great American people, would encounter but little difficulty in dispersing the mob that holds high carnival now at the capitol of the nation.

The black-hearted traitor is talking of the passage of the civil rights bill over the President's veto.

The Herald, too, talks of a "collision," and "revolution" slips almost as easily from the Democratic tongue as in the days when treason held "high carnival" and promised glorious success to the Democracy.

WHEN HE WOULD ADMIT.—The partisans of the President are insisting that he does not desire the admission into Congress, of any persons who have taken part in the rebellion. Let him speak for himself on this point. We quote from his speech to the rabble of traitors at Washington:

> I say let us admit into the councils of the nation those men who are loyal—those who acknowledge their allegiance to the government and swear to support the Constitution.

Here he tells us that he would not make past fealty to the government the present test of loyalty. He tells us, substantially, that it makes no difference what men may have done against the government heretofore, if they can now swear allegiance they should be admitted to seats in Congress. Evidently, he thinks that when a person who has been in rebellion has had a pardon thrust upon him, such person is thereby made perfectly loyal, and is fit to be trusted with the highest privileges which a citizen can claim.

NOTHING BUT ROARING.—Everybody remembers the story which M'Cartney told last winter about the minister who had such a Christly tone, and how he applied the anecdote to the obstreperous O'Fay. The canvass which the several candidates will make through the State will soon begin, but O'Fay's part might as well commence now, for, as Quince said about Snug, when the parties were preparing for the play of Pyramus and Thisbe, "he may perform his part without study and extempore, for it's nothing but roaring."

> Cannot the degradation of this fine old word [Democrat] be arrested? Can it not be restored to its former nobleness of meaning?—S. F. Flag.

Never while it is used as a misnomer for the rabble of traitors who now abuse it. Once, one of the noblest words in the English language it has come to be significant, in a party sense, of nothing but treachery, perfidy and shame.

SINGULAR FACT.—It is eighteen years since a man with a middle name occupied the Presidential chair.—Exchange.

The discoverer of the above "singular fact" has overlooked Pub. Func. Buchanan and Andrew "Moses" Johnson.

A stringent registry law has been passed by the California Legislature and approved by the Governor.

> In fine, they [the Union men] will leave nothing undone that can be honorably done at the Democratic party.—Letter in the Journal.

Well really, we hope they will leave nothing undone which may be honorably done, and if they do what they can honorably do you can bet all your available capital, that they will "defeat the Democratic party" about as badly in Oregon as the Union soldiers did at Gettysburg, or when that great Democratic leader, General Lee, gave up the Confederate ghost at Amelia Court House.

LECTURE.—The Rev. HORATIO STEBBINS, of San Francisco, will deliver a Lecture at the Methodist Church in this city on Friday evening, the 13th inst., for the benefit of the Portland Library Association.

Subject—"THE COUNTRY." Lecture to commence at half past seven o'clock.

Tickets, admitting a gentleman and lady, $1 00, to be had at the Book Stores and at Randall's Music Store.

THE MT. CRAWFORD CEMETERY PURCHASE.—A new Ordinance was reported on Wednesday evening to the City Council, making the third one offered within a year, providing for the purchase of the Mt. Crawford Cemetery grounds in East Portland. An Ordinance relating to the subject was laid upon the table two weeks before. On the evening of the 4th instant it was allowed to remain on the table, as there was not as full an attendance of the members as was desired when consideration of the Ordinance should be resumed. On the evening of Wednesday the rule was announced to consider business on the table, it being understood that another Ordinance had been passed in to the Clerk, the one of two weeks before was still allowed to remain upon the table. On the second reading of the Ordinance last offered, action was had and yesterday, during which considerable argument was used, for and against, the purchase of the grounds. It was urged by some of the members that the price asked for the grounds was too much—that $100 per acre was a sufficient sum to pay for the acre. Others showed equally as clear to our mind that the price was not exorbitant, and a statement was made to the effect that but recently 20 acres sold on the east side for $3,000, which was in an inferior location to that of the Mt. Crawford Cemetery. One exception was strongly urged to the purchase, on account of detentions at the ferry, another that there was ground already owned by the city on this side of the river. Again by another that there was not, and could not be found, on the west side a site adapted to the purpose. An effort to lay the Ordinance on the table was lost, and a motion to amend, so as to make the cost price $4,300 failed to prevail, when the Ordinance laid over under the rules. Now this is a very important matter. We have no arguments to advance, pro or con upon the subject, except to state what we believe to be facts, and these are. 1st, that the city having failed to avail of the privileges granted for the use of the grounds south of the Penitentiary will have difficulty to obtain the title; 2d, that had the city the title we are not satisfied about the fitness of the grounds; 3d, that if the city does own ground, and has failed to improve it, for this purpose, those guilty of the neglect are [illegible]; 4th, that it is a small thing to talk about, while the graves of our kindred are exposed in the manner they are at Mt. Crawford; 5th, that notwithstanding the [illegible] to Mt. Crawford, members of the Council themselves and our citizens generally continue to use it, when called to perform the last sad rites to a deceased relative or friend. We care not where grounds are [illegible], nor particularly about whom should own them, in case existing circumstances are improved, but, that the Cemetery, in its present condition is a disgrace to the community, we know.

[illegible] STUMP AND ROCK ELEVATOR.—This machine, [illegible] of Mr. M. A. Crawford, of Maine, in 1861, was brought to our city by Mr. J. L. Atkinson, on the last trip of the steamer Pacific, and has been on exhibition at the Central School House for some days past. It is a remarkably simple combination, consisting of a wheel, with cogs or teeth on the sides of the rim, two straight [illegible] one on each side of this wheel, so as to catch on the teeth as they are raised or lowered, and thereby turn the wheel slowly around, one cog at a time—and a long lever, like the brake of a common fire engine working the two small levers, a hook to suspend the whole in the air from a timber triangle, and a chain to draw up and pay out. The model of this most wonderful machine does not weigh over twenty-five pounds, and a child can lift and lower 4,000 pounds with it as readily as one can weigh the pounds of sugar with a common balance. The model is not much larger than a good sized coffee mill. The degree of power will depend upon the strength of the [illegible]. A model the same size of the one shown us by Mr. [illegible], made of the best Norway iron would lift 4,000 pounds. The larger machine, weighing some 400 pounds, [illegible] has power to raise from twenty to forty tons. We saw it applied to a stump on Park street yesterday, and one man raised the huge relic of the forest without apparent effort. Two men lifted it entirely out of the ground, and the stump would measure about four feet in diameter, with roots, or spurs of roots two feet through. Two men easily lifted two boilers weighing 14 tons, with the same machine, recently, in San Francisco, and stood on the boilers at the same time. The machine is easily adjusted for use in various positions, and we agree with others in saying that the inventor has [illegible] civilization a service in this triumph of his genius. Weights can be raised sixteen feet per minute if desired, or half as rapidly doubling the power. The Alta, in giving the machine, says Mr. A "goes to Portland with it to clean the stumps out of the streets of that city." We have not the slightest doubt but he can do so, and effectually, but there is one object to which we think he could not apply the invention, without difficulty, and that is the raising of buildings shaken down by earthquakes in the city of San Francisco.

EAST PORTLAND.—Unless a person will spare time to cross the river at this place, it would be impossible for him to conceive of the extent of the improvements at East Portland. We yesterday paid our neighbors a short visit, and conversed with one of the prominent residents there, from whom we learned many items of interest, among which may be stated that of the growth and prosperity of the East Portland School. Two years ago it was [illegible] this to get a quorum out to the school [illegible] and the amount of funds drawn annually for school [illegible] from the treasury of the county, amounted to but about $30. The average attendance of scholars was small [illegible]. At the last annual meeting, held the [illegible] of the [illegible] month, for the election of clerk and directors, there were 150 votes cast. The whole [illegible] of scholars enrolled the past year was 119, with an average attendance of 79, and the funds drawn from the county in support of the school amounted to $500. The [illegible] Church of East Portland have in contemplation the erection of a church edifice the present season, in the [illegible] of the base line road, but a short distance, from the ferry. New dwellings are going up very rapidly, and are [illegible] occupied. Business is also branching out considerably in the vicinity. Lately three or four well filled grocery stores have been established, besides a blacksmith [illegible], a tin shop, a harness shop, bakery, hotel, [illegible] establishment, etc. Real estate has considerably [illegible] within the last year, and lots and blocks are rapidly being shorn of timber, streets fenced off, and all the [illegible] performances are visible that tend to the making of a quiet but prosperous village.

THE KIRK-VEREIN SOIREE.—We were in attendance last evening at the Soiree given by the Turn-Verein, at their hall on First street, and we must be permitted to say that there has never yet been a party equal to it in [illegible]. The ladies, who are the life of such an entertainment, were largely in attendance, and they met [illegible] on this occasion tastefully dressed in calico, which added materially to their charms, and lent an [illegible] interest to the assembly long to be remembered. We are glad to know that so large a number of ladies [illegible] at last evening live amongst us, who [illegible] they can lay aside the flashy fashions, and [illegible] silks, to appear on one evening in the prettier and much more tasty calico. Truly, and emphatically, it is "not the dress that makes the woman" any more than the man, and we can go back on our younger years again, [illegible] that our mothers did know something. We [illegible] the ladies will live many years, and that the lessons [illegible] may prove useful.

TO LET.—It is not often that the couplet "To Let" appears upon a [illegible] in this city, long at a time. [illegible] of all kinds are taken much as a fish takes to [illegible], with avidity; but we know of a case where the [illegible] is particular as to the character of his tenants, and as he daily refuses to let the place it is still empty. We allude to the rooms in Raleigh's building, to be leased to [illegible] by Mr. Thos. Harris, of the [illegible] Exchange. Harris has suffered enough the [illegible] from the [illegible] of the tenants let into the [illegible] by the owner of it, and proposes himself to pay the rent and leave the building empty, before such transactions [illegible] there. We advise a good tenant [illegible] excellent rooms, to call upon him—none others need apply. See advertisement.

[illegible].—Mr. A. F. B. Gloss has a fine assortment of Canary [illegible], Goldfinches, Linnets, and Larks, which he [illegible] for sale, on Front street, opposite the [illegible] of J. W. Cook. The music his birds produce is equal to that heard on a ramble in the woods of a [illegible] morning. To hear the little fellows as they [illegible] throats, and roll out the sweet notes of song, [illegible] to purchasers. They seem to understand the art of selling themselves to good master or [illegible].

[illegible] COURSE.—The windows of the "Star of the [illegible]" have again been jammed up. The proprietors of that saloon will soon find it necessary to keep a glazier [illegible] employed in repairing the glass broken by [illegible] customers. The offender on this last occasion is known as Dan Howard, and he was sent up for ten days.—[illegible] Ned was yesterday proven to have been known "in the States" by the cognomen of E. H. Bogart.—W. S. Wells paid a fine of $5 and costs for fast driving on the streets.

THE ST. LOUIS STORE.—If there are people to be found [illegible] in favor of "St. Louis" goods, as to make [illegible] only at such places as may present to [illegible] those words, we will state that we have in [illegible] a firm who can not only supply them, but all others who may apply, and for further particulars we would call attention to the new advertisement of Messrs. Kohn & Fishel, No. 111 Front street, who will furnish a [illegible] stock on short order.

[illegible].—The steamer Alert returned from Oregon City yesterday with colors flying. Many were curious to know why it was, supposing everything from a birth to a death, but none were satisfied until after applying on board, when it was ascertained that the colors were set [illegible] for the 14th Infantry Band, which left in the morning to play at Salem last evening.

[illegible] WOOL.—One of the oddities of this market appeared to us yesterday, while at the landing of the Willamette steamers, to see wool shipped from Portland to the factory at Salem. Carrying "coals to Newcastle" would be lost beside this. The shippers were Messrs. [illegible] & Bros., whom, we presume to say, have good reason for the transaction.

FOR THE CARNIVAL.—In alluding to the Hill's Concord [illegible], made by S. Sherlock & Co., we would be understood as referring to the fact that they made that style of [illegible], but that they have the original for sale, which we deem a better article, however, than that manufactured East, and we believe stage owners will bear us out in this opinion.

[illegible] AT OREGON CITY.—Prof. Schuhman, assisted by a full chorus from among the musical gentlemen of Portland, will give a concert this evening at Oregon City.

TROUT.—The steamer Rescue last evening brought a few splendid trout from the Cowlitz river. They may be [illegible] at the market to-day on First street, near Alder.

THE LECTURE.—Of Rev. Horatio Stebbins will be delivered at the M. E. Church this evening. There occurred a mistake in the date printed on the cards.

TO CONTRACTORS.—An advertisement appears in this paper for proposals to build three fire cisterns in Salem.

The steamship due last night had not reached her wharf at 12 o'clock.

Multnomah No. 2.—Drill this (Friday) eve at 7½ o'clock precisely. By order of the Foreman

W. J. LEONARD, Secretary.

State Items

We learn from the Mountaineer that Camp Curry and Camp Wright are to be broken up, and the commands there now will proceed to Boise to join Maj. Marshall's expedition against the Snakes.

Our item of several days ago in relation to an order for Capt. Lafollett's company to be transferred to Ft. Vancouver, instead of being mustered out, is confirmed.

Messrs. Hannah & Rich are building a good flouring mill at Summerville, Grand Ronde valley. Summerville is a new town, situated about twenty six miles north of Uniontown and sixty five miles south of Walla Walla, on the Thomas & Ruckles wagon road.

Capt. Williams, mustering officer of this department, is making efforts, we learn, to procure the issuance of an order for the muster out of all the volunteers serving in this department, by the 1st of May, or as soon thereafter as practicable.

The receipts in the Treasury of Dalles City for the year ending April 3d, amounted to $15,549 03. The expenditures for the same period added to former indebtedness, were $24,542 17. The debt, April 3d, 1865, was $11,145 24. The indebtedness April 3d, 1866, was $9,360 14.

The stage of Wednesday from Canyon City, was obliged to lay over at Muddy, in consequence of the horses being missing. It is supposed they were stolen by Indians. The express, however, came on in its regular time.

The Mountaineer of yesterday says, that on last Friday night a small party of Snake Indians visited the ranch on Cottonwood and stole a cow. The next day they were pursued by three or four white-men and one Indian boy, who resides at the Cottonwood House. The Snakes finding themselves pursued went into ambush and fired on the party as it passed, wounding one of the white men in the ankle and the Indian boy in the hip. The whites then opened a brisk fire with Henry rifles, which made the Snakes skedaddle in double-quick time."

Mr. Woods, Union candidate for Governor, came down from the Dalles last evening and went South this morning. He and Col. Kelly have made an arrangement by which they will open the stumping campaign at Jacksonville, and thence go through the State northward. The announcements of times and places of speaking will be made in two or three days.

A new election precinct has been organized in Jackson county, embracing that portion east of the mountains in which Fort Klamath is situated.

Capt. Borland's company of Oregon Infantry has arrived at the Dalles and will be mustered out, probably to-morrow.

A letter from Vancouver last evening states that Col. Sinclair will start to-day, with a large number of recruits for the 14th U. S. Infantry, by way of camps Watson and Curry, to Fort Boise. Camp Curry will be broken up, and the force now there will, also, be taken to Fort Boise.

A Mr. Carlin and Rufus Overlander ran a foot race at Canyonville yesterday, on a wager of $300—distance, seventy-five yards,—won by Overlander, by four feet. Several hundred dollars also changed hands among outsiders.

P. Henry—O, monstrous! but one half-pennyworth of bread to this intolerable amount of sack!

SCENE FROM LIFE IN LEWISTON.

VERY SINCERE.—A. H. Stephens, the rebel ex-Vice President, recently delivered a speech in Milledgeville, in which he took occasion to speak of the present situation and future possibilities of the black race, saying:

> Ample and full protection should be secured to them, so that they may start equal before the law in the possession and enjoyment of all rights of personal liberty and property. The object of Government is the good of the governed, looking to the greatest attainable advancement, improvement, and progress, physical, intellectual and moral, of all classes and conditions within their rightful jurisdiction. All obstacles, if there be any, should be removed, which can possibly hinder or retard the blacks to the extent of their capacity. It is difficult to conceive a greater evil or curse than could befall our country, stricken and distressed as it now is, for so large a portion of its population as this class will quite probably constitute among us hereafter, to be reared in ignorance, depravity and vice.

The above sounds extremely fine. With Stephens' past record before him, of course no one can doubt his present sincerity. Take the following from his Savannah speech of March 21, 1861:

> Slavery is the proper status of the negro in our form of civilization. Northern fanatics assume that the negroes are entitled to equal privileges and rights with the white man. The assumption is wrong, and the premises being wrong, their argument fails. Slavery, subordination to the superior race, is the natural and normal condition of the negro.

This does not accord remarkably well with his last declaration that the negro should be put "in the possession and enjoyment of all rights of liberty and property." Stephens does not keep his Democratic record quite up to the rules of consistency. Yet this is the man, to whom the country is asked to entrust its legislation—the man whose sincerity we are asked to confide in—the man who, notwithstanding he was the second in the scheme to break down our Government, is now to be admitted as a Senator in Congress. Let him go to his plantation and practice the philanthropy to which he has become so sudden a convert!

HOPELESSLY LOST.—"Johnson has weakened," was the doleful exclamation which was heard to emanate from a Copperhead on the street last evening—"JOHNSON HAS WEAKENED, and niggers are made equal to Democrats; what will become of our liberties?" Yes, sorrowful Copperhead, "Johnson has weakened;" and it pains us to the heart to know that you have no way left of saving yourself from the competition, the company, the association and contamination of the negro race. Johnson stood between you and degradation, but "he has weakened." Your case is hopeless. We haven't the heart to bid you be of good cheer and try to make an even race with the negro the in contest for superiority. It's all over, and fate and destiny are gainst you. Give it up; try no more.

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.—The operation of this palatable remedy upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties, and it is recommended to mothers, enfeebled by the cares and duties of maternity, as the safest and best tonic they can probably use. In all the crisis of female life it will be found eminently useful, and elderly persons will derive much more benefit from it than from ordinary stimulants. S. T.—1860.—X.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated

PLANTATION BITTERS,

Which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities, and warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supersede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.

They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

Idaho News

The following items of Idaho news are clipped from the [illegible]

DISCOVERY OF COAL.

Coal has recently been found on Reynolds creek about six miles below Boonville's. We have seen the burning of a specimen in a blacksmith shop which proves it to be coal—or genuine croppings. It ignites freely and is not consumed in a moment. It will produce sufficient heat to melt iron. Mr. [illegible] has used it in an ordinary stove by the aid of a little wood for kindling. It was discovered some months ago, but the discovery was not made public. The current of water exposed a vein of four inches, and the shaft recently dug shows one of twelve inches. Bill Beachy is one of the lucky owners and [illegible] the strike a good one. Should this his prospect prove permanent, he is [illegible] as he humorously remarks [illegible]

This discovery has settled a question that has been thus far a two sided one. Many men, claiming that the geological characteristics of the country were not indicative of coal, pronounced prospecting for it useless. To the best rules of scientific propositions, there are exceptions. Of this kind, this coal discovery is a demonstration, if the scientific appearance attributed to the country is correct.

P. S.—Since the above was in type, Judge Hays brought a large specimen into our office. By burning it reduces the true coal smell. The vein is already fifteen inches wide. The locators are Messrs. Beachy, Babbington, Pope and Wilson.

A specimen of the coal lies on the counter at W. F. & Co.'s office in this city.

INDIAN THIEVES.

On the night of the 21st ult., the Indians stole fifteen head of work cattle and two horses in Jordan valley from Lewis ranch. Ten head of the cattle belonged to Messrs. Bloom & Herd, of Silver City, and were worth fully twelve hundred dollars. Three citizens and two soldiers pursued the thieves until their horses gave out, but without retaking the stock. The horses used in pursuit were poor and unable to endure much service. We got this report from citizens of the valley, who inform us that they feel confident that the Bruneau Indians are connected with the Jordan depredations. As they are the principal sufferers, we presume they are entitled to put in a word.

SUSPENSION OF WORK.

Excepting the Morning Star, the mills have all suspended operations. Some for want of quartz either at mine or mill, and others on account of the impassible condition of the roads. However, preparations are being made to start all of them at an early day.

The Boise Statesman of March 31, and April 2, contains the following:

NEW ARRANGEMENT.

Mr. John N. Todd, Ben. Holladay's agent at this place received a telegram yesterday, informing him that the Overland Stage Line has been reorganized under the name of the Holladay Overland Mail and Express Company, with Ben. Holladay as President. How soon the change will take place is not yet learned here.

A PASSENGER DROWNED.

The stage from the west had considerable difficulty in crossing passengers at the Weiser, day before yesterday. As the ferry neared the shore the boat sank and the passengers jumped out—a part of them to the shore and a part into the stream. One man by the name of Manuel Ignacio was drowned.

A SILVER BRICK.

We saw yesterday a small brick of one hundred and sixty ounces from the Harris mill, taken out of the Wide West. It assays 713 fine. The mill is grinding out about five hundred dollars a day and has every prospect of being a complete success.

ARRIVAL.

Capt. Theodore J. Eckerson arrived from Fort Vancouver last Sunday to take charge of the Quartermaster's department of the district of Boise.

HIGH WATER—THE TRAVEL TO MONTANA.

Howard Bledsoe brought us the usual bundle of exchanges and items along the road.

The water in all the streams is very high, but is receding a little. The banks of Snake river at the ferry are even full. The Grande Ronde river is out of its banks, and Powder river is up all around Baker City. The Weiser has carried off the bridges, making it difficult to cross, in consequence of which Haley has turned his stages on the Washoe Ferry road. The new boat at Gaylord's Ferry, on the Payette, is launched and running, so the crossing is expeditious and safe at that point. The road, as well as the grass, grow better all the way this side of Grande Ronde, so the teams and trains on the road need apprehend no difficulty in coming through. In fact, there is no reason why animals should not be in better order when they get here than when they start from Umatilla. The last of the machinery of the Snake river boat, Shoshone, arrived last night at Miller's, and will be at the landing in a day or two. All the boats, hotels and stages are full of passengers and hundreds can get no conveyance. Taking advantage of the fact that the Boise City route is the only one now open from the Columbia river to Montana, a large portion of the emigration is coming this way. There is no doubt, but nearly the whole of it would come this way if the true condition of the different routes was known below. Parties coming this way will reach their destination weeks before it will be possible to get through the snow on the Coeur d'Alene mountains.

RETURN OF THE ADA VOLUNTEERS.

The Ada volunteers returned this week after being out twenty-four days, without finding any Indians. They first went to within twenty miles of the Bruneau, but there meeting Jennings with his big remonstrance against molesting the Indians in that direction, they went then towards the head of the Owyhee, until their provisions were entirely given out. They could get no further supplies at Camp Lyon, and were, therefore, obliged to return. They were several days on very small rations. Captain Updyke thinks that there are no Indians this side the Owyhee, unless they are far up towards the head. There are some over on the Malheur. Captain Walker, having gone in that direction, is liable to find some of them. At present, they all seem to have disappeared from Reynolds, Jordan and Sucker creeks. If the party now gone to Bruneau can make a treaty of peace with that band, and Captain Walker has the luck to find and whip another camp in another direction, we may begin to feel encouraged to hope for peace and safety. That Captain Updyke and his company did not find any Indians on their march is no fault of theirs but because after making their recent raids the Indians had gone out of danger.

We clip the following from the World, Idaho City, of the 31st ult.:

MINING AT PIONEER CITY.

Our mining operations have commenced. Mr Wilson has the water through his large ditch and miners, taking advantage of the early spring, are sluicing down their banks like fun. From present indications there will be a great scarcity of men to work the claims that will be supplied with water. Muddy and Apple Jack Gulches, containing some of the richest mining ground in this vicinity, will require two or three hundred men when in full operation. That section will be supplied with water from Mr. Wilson's upper ditch—conveying water from Grimes' creek. Richards & Co. have their ditch ready to supply the miners upon Gamblers' Bar, and mining ground in the vicinity of Buckskin and Swede Gulch. We anticipate lively times in a week or two, when the miners get fairly to work.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

The District Court has been principally occupied with the trial of the case of Thatcher et al, vs. Gay et al, involving property in a certain ditch on Grimes' Creek. The case will probably not be disposed of before Monday or Tuesday next.

The juries in the cases of the People vs. Slocum and Burns, failed to agree and were discharged. No further order has been made in those cases.

A Grand Jury was impanneled Friday morning, to consider public offenses recently committed, including the homicide case of Dunn.

A GOOD CLEAN-UP.

At a cleaning-up on the claim of White Brothers, on Sunday last, over $6,000 was washed up. The claim is on the bar above town.

PERSONAL.

Judge Shafer made his appearance again in the District Court, this week, after laying on his back most of the time for a month, with a violent attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

W. C. Child, who has been connected with the office of Wells, Fargo & Co., in this place, for a long time has been appointed Agent at Umatilla, and has left us for his new residence. Sorry! He will be missed around this town for he was an enterprising and pleasant gentleman.

HOMICIDE—A CHASE AND CAPTURE.

Thomas Mackay was killed last Monday afternoon, on Buena Vista Bar by M. Dunn. The evidence of several of the witnesses examined at the coroner's inquest, held before Squire Hodgdon, has been published. There was a difficulty between them last summer, during which Mackay shot Dunn, the ball glancing off his forehead without inflicting any serious damage. The attack this week was made while Mackay was walking in the street. From four to six shots were fired from a revolver three of which took effect. Dunn immediately took to the hills, followed by some of the witnesses of the shooting. Messrs. Crutcher and Gorman were immediately informed of the homicide, and followed hastily in pursuit on horseback. The chase continued for two or three miles, when Dunn was overtaken—some of his pursuers having followed him so closely that he had no opportunity to secrete himself or escape. He threatened to shoot any one who interfered with him, but was finally arrested and placed in jail to await examination. Mackay was a native of Nova Scotia, and formerly resided at Nevada, Cal., and subsequently at Virginia City, Nevada. Dunn was also from the latter place.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

A letter from Boise City contains the subjoined items:

The whooping cough has been very prevalent here and several deaths, we learn, have occurred among the children from that disease.

A postoffice has been established at Middleton, on Boise river, below this place, on William A. Montgomery's ranch, and Elijah Bennet appointed postmaster.

Two flouring mills are being erected—one some four miles from town, (I don't remember the parties), and another by G. J. Gray & Co., fifteen miles distant. On the ranch of Mr. Gray, the work having been commenced and the machinery already on the way, it will be ready to work on the coming crop.

Among the recent arrivals we notice our old friend Capt. Jeff. Standifer, who is spending a few days here preparatory to his departure for Montana.

Since my last there have been no very extraordinary changes here, except that the stages have resumed making their regular trips from below, and the town presents a business like activity that is refreshing, after a dull, monotonous winter. The town is almost crowded with strangers, who have various places of destination, though the principal emigration seems tending to Montana. Many of our citizens have left and many more are preparing to leave soon.

Mr Getsler and troupe are still playing here.

We have just been informed that your worthy townsman, George Ainslie, Esq., has taken one of our brightest stars—as a young friend of mine so expressed himself. But it can't be helped—what is our loss is George's gain.

The weather has been most delightful and our farmers are actively engaged in planting and improving their farms. This branch of industry, which has heretofore been but experimental, has so far exhibited the most satisfactory results, and has been so far certain and remunerative. Most of the cereals can be produced here to a perfection very seldom equaled in any country, and vegetable products will compare favorably with Oregon or California.

The Cholera in 1865.

A most valuable document is the Report on Epidemic Cholera, issued by the Citizens' Association of New York. In preparing this collection of statistics, the Association has added to its claims upon the gratitude of the people of this great commercial city. In order to obtain well-established principles, the physicians who have prepared the report have made a careful induction from the facts of the progress of cholera during the year 1865. It is to these we would invite special attention.

In relation to the first appearance of the epidemic, we have some important facts: "On the 11th of May, the present year (1865), the first case of cholera at Alexandria, in Egypt was announced in the northwestern district of that city, near the railway station—a filthy suburb inhabited by about twenty thousand Arabs, Greeks and Maltese, who were living in gross neglect of every hygienic law. From this point the malady gathered strength, and assumed the characteristics of an epidemic. On the 25th of June, the death from cholera in that city were occurring at the rate of two hundred per day. But previously to the latter date, the same epidemic had been announced at Cairo and other places on the Nile, and in its delta. At the same time, and previously, Mecca and Medina, in Arabia, and the vast caravans of the Moslem pilgrims that were crowding the thoroughfares and encampments of that region, had become hot-beds of the cholera. By midsummer it was estimated by the Pasha of Damascus that, of the seven hundred thousand pilgrims who visited Mecca in the month of May, more than forty thousand perished from cholera. Before the middle of August, eighty thousand persons had perished from cholera in Lower Egypt alone.

"Sweeping around the eastern coast of the Mediterranean, the epidemic quickly reached the ports of Beyrout, Jaffa, Alexandretta, and Smyrna; and appearing at the Naval Hospital, near the gates of Constantinople, the 8th of July, it soon insinuated its deadly poison throughout the crowded and filthy quarters of that city, and in the course of a few weeks was destroying a thousand lives daily.

"The island of Malta, and the city of Ancona, on the gulf of Venice, were reached by the epidemic early in August, and it commenced its ravages there, although the absolute quarantine and sanitary cordons of those places had attempted to defy its approach. At the same time, and probably at a date considerably earlier than this, the same malady was rife in the city of Bagdad and on the borders of the Persian gulf; and at later dates it spread to Jerusalem, Damascus, Trebizond, and Varna, eastward, and to Modena, Ostino, Torre Maggiore, Piacenza, San Palo, San Marco, and, Fogia, westward; and later to San Severo, Albacete, Palermo and Valentia. At the last named city the epidemic was fully announced about the middle of August. During the months of August and September, the epidemic visited Marseilles and Toulon in France; and Catalonia, Gibraltar, Barcelona, and Madrid in Spain; and, at or about the same dates, reached Odessa and various ports on the Black Sea. During the last weeks of September, the epidemic began to manifest itself in Paris and in Southampton and their surrounding districts."

The following conclusions may be drawn from these facts: That the cholera has followed the channels of commercial intercourse, keeping close by water-sides, and establishing itself first in filthy quarters of cities, that were already inviting its approaches; that the relation of human agency and of the lines of transportation in the march of the epidemic has been peculiarly apparent, and that it has followed the laws previously deduced from its history.

"The season was exceedingly hot and damp. The epidemic earliest, and as if by special election or predisposition, afflicted the persons and classes who dwell in foul air, and who are most negligent and reckless in their diet, who indulge in excesses and abuses of the appetites, and who generally are most subject to the diseases that arise from bad diet and the neglect of self-care."

The localizing causes of cholera may be classified as follows: "1. Decaying organic matters, bone, hide, fat, and offal houses, neglected stables, putrescent mud and filth; 2. Bad drainage, local dampness, malaria; 3. Obstructed sewers, filthy streets, gutters, stables, garbage, and cess pools, 4. Water and beverages in any manner contaminated by putrescent organic matter, particularly by soakage from privies, 5. Neglected privies and putrefying excrements; 6. Overcrowding, and neglect of ventilation."

The immunity of places of previous impurity when brought under thorough sanitary reform, we are told, has been proved whenever tried. For example, "that class of lodging houses in the cities of England that had been brought under sanitary regulations, with a total population of 80,000, was nearly exempt from cholera during the last epidemics, while the lodging and tenant houses not under such regulations continued to be hotbeds of both cholera and fever. In the report of the General Board of Health in 1849, it is stated that in the great tenant house called the Metropolitan Buildings, in which the health regulations were complete, though with a population exceeding five hundred persons, not a case of cholera occurred, yet in the same district the epidemic was very fatal. In the report of the same board in 1851, it is stated that "in the metropolis every efficient sanitary improvement has been followed as directly as cause and effect by a corresponding decrease of sickness and mortality. There is no exception to this rule—it applies to the courts, alleys, and houses occupied by the industrial classes; it applies to public institutions of every kind, to prisons, to hospitals, to lunatic asylums; and, above all, to establishments specially erected to test the value of sanitary principles—to the model lodging houses of the metropolis. In our report on epidemic cholera, it is shown that only one out of 705 persons, inmates of these model buildings, had been attacked by the disease, whereas, among the population of London generally, one person in 75 was attacked."

A remarkable fact is told of the city of Worcester England. "Having been twice scourged by cholera, the city undertook to avert the later epidemics by means of effectually cleansing and efficient sanitary regulations. The result was, that while the pestilence swept through the neighboring cities and villages, the populous city of Worcester escaped, and the destroyer of unclean ly cities made a passover with the people of Worcester, for on every lintel and door-post was written "cleanliness, cleanliness." Not a house was entered, and the town was saved in the midst of the most frightful desolation.'"—New York Methodist.

A man named Parson S. Paramour, has been fined $5, in Indianapolis for saying to the street that he would be damned.

A PORTRAIT OF SHAKESPEARE.—A portrait, said to be that of Shakespeare by a cotemporary painter, is now in the possession of Dr. Charles Clay, of Manchester, England. It is described by an English journal as follows:

The style of painting and richness of color and finish are equal to and not unlike the best of Sir Peter Lely's, though evidently of an earlier date. In it the connoisseur will unmistakably recognize the hand of a great master. All who have seen it, acknowledge it as being the most pleasing of all the portraits of Shakespeare extant, and what is of still greater importance in so interesting a subject, it exhibits more completely that intellectual capacity in which the other likenesses whether in oil, engraving or sculpture, are so painfully deficient. The general outline is similar to the Chandos portrait now in the National Portrait Gallery, but in execution far surpasses it. We may remark that the sugar loaf form of the cranium, so generally to be observed in the busts and portraits of Shakespeare, is avoided in Dr. Clay's portrait. No anatomist or physiologist could with propriety admit the generally received formation of Shakespeare's head, for the height of the forehead requires a lateral expanse to support it, in order to accommodate that full power and breadth of intellect specially characteristic of the poet.

Dr. Clay's portrait gives breadth proportionate to the altitude. The face is thoughtful and slightly touched with melancholy, the eyes being remarkably expressive and pleasing. Many critics have objected to the Chandos portrait on account of its foreign cast of features, here we have the type of a true Englishman of the true Elizabeth period, there are no earrings as in the Chandos, the clothing being simple and unadorned, the collar is without strings, less in size, and where it meets in front shows a portion of the throat below the beard; the collar itself is not so stiff as in other portraits. If we might venture an opinion from the luxuriance of the hair, which is of a rich brown, tinted with auburn, this picture must have been painted at an earlier period of life than the Chandos portrait. The face is nearly full, the hair is higher over the forehead, and falling partially and gracefully over the collar on the left side. The portrait has been carefully relined, and is in an old-fashioned frame of the period. There is not quite so much of the body in view as in the Chandos, four buttons only below the vest being visible, while in the Chandos there are seven or eight. The size is twenty-four inches by twenty. Dr. Clay is in possession of proofs of its having been the property of one family for more than a century, and is now making further inquiries as to its history. Many capable of judging have seen this painting, and all pronounce it a genuine antique, and it is in the finest possible preservation.

TICKNOR AND WINTHROP.—The young Frenchman, M. Duvergier de Hauranne, who has been giving a French magazine some account of his American visit in 1864, and treats liberally therein of the notabilities of Boston, thus impales two of the "ancient and honorable" citizens of that town:

Winthrop presented me to George Ticknor, one of the lions of Boston, but a lion of literature rather than of politics. Everything at his dwelling recalled the spacious interiors of English mansions, an air of comfort and luxury tempered by a taste at once simple and severe. He is in appearance a vigorous old man, careful in dress, wearing his beard in the English fashion, and, indeed, resembling an English parliamentarian very much. His bearing is interesting and extremely notable, though perhaps less sympathetic than R. C. Winthrop's. They both—Ticknor especially—belong to a party here called "Copperhead." Friends of slavery in the land of abolition; both a little aristocratic in the most democratic country of the earth; predicting, in careless moments, the ruin of liberal institutions and the dismemberment of the republic, they are drowning politicians badly resigned to their fate. Ticknor especially, with an obstinacy elsewhere allowed to his sixty-three years, has always resisted the movement which to-day regenerates America. I see in him the man of the past, whom nothing has been able to bend or to soften, and who, although imposing on his language the restraint which the blindness of the age demands, is yet at heart the confirmed friend of slavery. Reserved by nature, scornful by instinct and held so by necessity, he does not speak willingly of the affairs of his country. One word in contempt of the skill of the rulers of the day, an avowal that American institutions had degenerated, a disheartened silence more expressive than many words, are all that I have been able to draw from him on America.

THE LEFT-HAND WRITING.—The exhibition of the left-hand writing by disabled soldiers, now open at No 954 Broadway, is eminently practical and valuable, as well as original in its conception. Nearly three hundred manuscripts of a high order of average merit, some of them very superior in lettering, and artistic skill, coming from twenty-four different States and territories, and Canada, are a proof of the wide-spread influence of the honorable competition stimulated by this enterprise. New York furnishes 65; Ohio, 35; Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, 28; Illinois, 25; and other States in proportion. Two colored men appear among the competitors. The great feature of the exhibition is expressed in one of the mottoes displayed in the hall: "Give us work that we can do."

The following are among the sentiments which form a part of the decorations of the room:

"Our brave boys on ship and shore,
God bless them, now and evermore!"

"The arms and body you may sever,
But our glorious Union never!"

"Disabled, but not Disheartened," "The Left Arm," "The Empty Sleeve," "Our Disabled Soldiers have kept the Union from being Disabled!" and others of a similar character adorn the hall.—N. Y. Evening Post.

WHERE FEMALE SEX PREVAILS.—Some curious Statistics have just been published, with respect to the population in France. It appears that the females numbered 18,741,037, and the males 18,646,276, forming altogether 9,050,000 families. There exists 5,000,120 boys under age, and 6,106,321 girls. Of 8,579,040 unmarried persons, there are 4,479,850 females. There are 921,023 widowers and 1,790,126 widows. Of the widows 81 are 20 years of age, and there are 820 widows of the same age. France possesses this moment 1,520,154 girls of from 15 to 20 years of age, and 1,308,366 boys of the same age. The greatest examples of longevity are supplied by females. We find three females out of four unmarried persons who have reached the age of 100, and two widows who have passed that age. 14,371 Frenchmen, and only 13,400 French women have lost their sight; 12,447 Frenchmen, and only 9,509 French women are deaf and dumb; 22,319 French women have become insane, and only 2,572 Frenchmen. There are 23,407 male, idiots, and only 18,118 female idiots. The female sex prevails in France, while it has constantly decreased in the city of Vienna since the year 1830, in the proportion of three hundredths every six years.

A MODEL NOTICE.—The Health Officer, Dr. McNulty, is untiring in his efforts to abate the nuisances which are the objects of almost hourly complaint at his office. His success is already telling in the improved health of the city, and due credit should be given him for his faithfulness, and also for a shrewd interpretation of some of complaints filed with him. We copy verbatim a notice received last week, which would defy the penetration of an ordinary man:

"March the 13, 1866. to the health officer of the Cittey and Countey of San fransisco. Plase inspect the Nebour that is the yard With me I Wish to lit you no the Weay are Sityoued in thiss Nebourhood With thiss Woming the name of Mrs. ——. She has 8 young hogs and the old one. She Live on —— St Betwen —— and —— Streets."

The allusion to the "Woming" who had eight young hogs is particularly obscure.—S. F. Call.

The State Superintendent of Education of Mississippi, Chaplain Joseph Warren, has transmitted to General Howard, his report of the colored schools of that State, in a communication dated January 2d. He enumerates many difficulties that opposed the organization of schools in that State, one of which was the dangue fever, which nearly all of the teachers took. The two principal causes which prevented teachers from coming there were, the reputed unhealthiness of the State, and the hostile feelings of the people towards the blacks, and all those who manifested an interest in them. He reports the number of schools in the State, 50, number of teachers, 6, number of pupils, 5,171, average attendance, 2,746, in alphabet and primer, 1,451; reading 2,824, writing, 1,144, arithmetic, 1,752, other studies, 1,194. Of these, 2,847 are pure African, and 2,424 are mixed.

An orator, in appealing to the "bone and sinew," said: "My friends I am proud to see around me to-night the hardy yeomanry of the land, for I love the agricultural interests of the country, and well may I love them fellow-citizens, for I was born a farmer, the happiest days of my youth were spent in the peaceful avocations of a son of the soil. If I may be allowed to use a figurative expression, my friends, I may say I was born between two rows of corn." "A pumpkin, by thunder!" exclaimed an inebriated chap, just in front of the stage.

Prices Greatly Reduced!

American Double Turbine Water Wheel

IS NOW MANUFACTURED BY THE OREGON IRON Works, in the city of Portland, and orders for the same can be filled immediately. We have a small supply of the different sizes, from 10 inches to 48 inches in diameter. That we may know the proper sized wheel you require, measure your water in the following way: Take the width of the stream, the average depth, and the distance it flows in a minute.

All the wheels now in use give universal satisfaction. Both the construction of the wheel and its performance, commend it to the better judgment of all minds capable of appreciating the highest development of mechanical construction. Therefore it has conquered the most violent opposition.

This wheel is especially adapted to mining purposes. It is light, and can be easily packed into the mountains. Wheels weighing from 100 to 300 pounds will yield from 10 to 40 horse power, under a head of 25 or 30 feet. They are the cheapest wheel to set up known, as they are so arranged as to produce the greatest power possible from the water used.

The prices of these wheels have now been reduced to the ability of all. Come and see them or send for a circular to
